

1.

NEWS

LADIES FIRST

W HOTELS /// BOTTEGA VENETTA ///
HARRY WINSTON /// REGALIA

2.

Rest easy in the motherly arms of style mavens Diane von Furstenberg, Chaka Kahn, and Bobbi Brown. These elegant ladies are bringing their feminine charm to W Hotels' Wonder Women program, which offers an array of amenities, design influences, and W Happenings events illuminating the needs of the everyday woman. With consultants like these on board, you can be assured that your feminine side will be well nurtured.

Known for her sympathetic and reciprocal involvement with her female subjects, photographer Annie Leibovitz has employed a more impressionistic style for the Bottega Veneta Fall/Winter 2007/2008 campaign. Leibovitz's photographs find lithe subjects lounging in a gauzy, sepia-tinged boudoir while dolled up in Bottega Veneta's lingerie-inspired line.

A similar lightness also distinguishes the diamond compositions of Harry Winston's Diamond de Neige holiday collection. These stones are set in organic formations with a minimum of metal inset to suggest fallen snow sitting delicately on the skin of their lucky owners.

It never snows in Sunny Isles Beach, Florida — the hot destination where Arquitectonica's curvaceous Regalia tower has set sail. This 43-story structure not only offers luxurious oversized living spaces and tons of exclusively commissioned artwork, but also fluid glass sculptures from Dale Chihuly, which just may tempt the ocean more than the Sirens offshore.

3.

4.

1. Bottega Veneta Fall/Winter 2007/2008 Campaign by Annie Leibovitz
2. W Fort Lauderdale bathroom designed by Clodagh
3. Harry Winston's Diamond de Neige Holiday Collection
4. Regalia Tower designed by Arquitectonica